The Catholic life and mission of Holy Family is evident through the relationships between staff and pupils, and between children. There is a tangible sense of belonging and pride to be part of the 'Holy Family family'. Relationships are built on mutual love and respect for each other at all levels. One member of staff said, "We truly believe we are a family and not just colleagues." The behaviour of pupils is exemplary. They talk enthusiastically about their school, their learning and about the enhancement opportunities experienced. There is a definite commitment to Catholic Social Teaching, of which the children speak about with knowledge and confidence. Each class has a designated charity and pupils understand their role in helping their local and global neighbours. Pupils work together to raise money for Cafod, Good Shepherd, Children in Need, Willowbrook and for the local foodbank. Pupils know that they need to help others and treat everyone with kindness and respect and these values are reflected in how they interact with each other. The pupils are given opportunity to become leaders and they are very proud to be able to share in this aspect of school life. Pupils speak enthusiastically of the actions taken in working towards the Live Simply Award, particularly their role in the development of a prayer garden.

The school's mission, 'Following in Jesus' footsteps we pray together, play together and learn together' is deeply rooted in the ethos of the school and pupils articulate what it means to them. The mission is reviewed regularly so that it is relevant and reflective of the school community. The school values of 'respect, responsibility and resilience' are firmly embedded from Nursery right through to Year 6. The entire school environment is a showcase of its mission and values. The care and attention given to the quality of displays in corridors and shared areas contributes positively to the formation of the pupils as a continual sign of the Catholic character of the school.

Leaders and governors have a shared vision which permeates all aspects of school life. This results in staff feeling empowered to contribute positively to the life of the school and act as positive role models. Staff care deeply about each other. Their well-being is given the highest importance and the care and support offered by leaders is appreciated by staff. The provision of relationships and sex education is thoroughly planned and reflective of archdiocesan policy.

Leaders ensure there is ample opportunity to involve the wider community in the Catholic life of the school in such events as Mothers' Day tea party, grand parents tea party and Fathers' Day quiz. One parent stated: "The Catholic ethos is at the heart of everything Holy Family does. For me, Catholic schools seem to have more of a sense of community and Holy Family definitely confirms this." As a result, pupils have a sense of belonging and know how they can positively contribute to the community in which they live. Policies and practices are fully in place which prioritise Catholic life and mission. The head teacher and subject leader work closely together with a shared vision for Catholic life and mission, which is shared with governors. The governance of the school is strong and governors act as guardians of the faith. The governors know the school incredibly well and are aware of what the school does well and the challenges it faces. Leaders and governors have high expectations and hold clear aspirations for the school. They embrace and engage with continued professional development opportunities offered by the Archdiocese and newly appointed staff are well supported.

The enabling environment in Early Years allows the children to get off to a flying start in their learning of religious education. The children in Nursery are encouraged and are able to use subject specific vocabulary in the correct context; for example, one child in nursery explained the school's values of respect, resilience and responsibility. These high expectations are sustained and built upon throughout key stage one and two as pupils develop excellent knowledge, skills and understanding. Pupils make consistently good progress which is in line with other core subjects. Work in books is presented beautifully, is of an exceptionally high standard and pupils are proud of their work. They talk with enthusiasm about their learning and can make links between topics, including those from previous years; proving pupils are knowing more and remembering more. Pupils experience awe and wonder in their religious education lessons because of the high-quality resources used that are engaging and exciting.

The work in books and in discussion shows that religious education is being taught creatively through drama, art, music, information communication technology and a variety of engaging writing tasks. The subject knowledge of teachers is strong across all year groups. They use questioning effectively to keep the pace of the lesson and the interest of the children, whilst deepening their understanding. All teachers refer to prior learning and build on what the pupils already know. Scripture is discussed and explained in detail, enabling the pupils to fully understand its meaning and significance. Feedback and marking is understood by pupils and they know how to improve their work. Teachers' verbal feedback during lessons is highly effective and pupils are given time to reflect and discuss before responding to probing and challenging questions. Teaching assistants are deployed effectively and contribute significantly to teaching and learning. Driver words are used in discussion both by teachers and the pupils and used in books in some year groups. Displays in every classroom are of a very high quality, are relevant and include key vocabulary for the topic being taught. The teaching and learning of religious education is adapted to include pupils with special educational needs. Here as well, teaching assistants are well deployed in providing support, care and guidance to the most vulnerable learners. This ensures all pupils are achieving the best outcomes.

The curriculum for religious education is well sequenced and meets the learning required for the current religious education curriculum directory. The new Religious Education Directory has been implemented in the Early Years classes. Religious education has full parity with other core subjects and expectations regarding presentation, marking, feedback, challenge and reporting to parents. The subject leader, the headteacher and governors ensure that religious education is the 'core of the core' subjects. Communication between school and governors is excellent, resulting in all stakeholders knowing what the school does well and what their biggest challenges are. Teachers have a high level of confidence and are well supported by the dedicated and committed subject leader, whom the teachers and teaching assistants hold in high regard. She leads with passion, knowledge, commitment, and a drive for continued improvement; she is proactive in her role and is the driving force behind a recently created cluster network. The subject is monitored and evaluated thoroughly and effectively, and this task is shared amongst governors. Improvements have been made because of the rigorous system of monitoring, evaluation and feedback given. Teachers who are new to school, including early career teachers, are well supported and relevant professional development opportunities are provided. The overall vision and determination for high-quality teaching and learning in religious education, results in exceptional learning in religious education.

Experiences of prayer and liturgy are planned with careful consideration in accordance with the age and stage of children. Relevant Scripture is shared. This results in children being deeply engaged in prayer which is clearly embedded into the daily practice of the school. The pupils show such a positive attitude to worship and know how to be reverent, reflective and respectful. They know a wide range of prayers, both traditional and those unique to the school. Pupils are aware that prayer brings people closer to God. They were particularly proud when sharing the school prayer 'Jesus, Mary and Joseph' through recital and sign language. From Early Years right through to Year 6, it is evident that prayer and liturgy has a positive impact on the pupils both spiritually and emotionally. One parent stated that this is why "Children enjoy their collective worship". Worship Warriors are proud of their role in leading worship across the school and enjoy having an important area of responsibility. They speak with confidence when discussing how they select which prayers and hymns to use and are fully confident in the use of the gather, listen, respond and go forth aspects of worship.

The school offers a range of liturgical celebrations throughout the year and these experiences reflect the prayer life of the Church. The school enjoys and actively promotes opportunities to bring the community together for such occasions. The head teacher, senior leaders and staff are perfect role models of exemplary practice and support the development of pupil prayer and reflection. Prayer is clearly central to the life of the school and this clearly links to the school's mission. Worship significantly contributes to the spiritual and moral development of pupils and in raising awareness of the dignity and difference of others. Pupils are given opportunity to pray in a range of ways including teacher and child led song, silence and reflection. Prayer is used meaningfully in times of joy and celebration and as a way to bring the school community together when spiritual comfort is needed. The network of origami cranes around the school is an excellent example of how the community supported each other through a time of great sorrow. High quality resources are used creatively and help engage the children in meaningful ways. Prayer spaces are imaginatively used. These include outdoor spaces that pupils are enthusiastic about, as this enables them to experience the awe and wonder of God's creation. Parents, carers and the parish community are frequently invited to school to the 'rejoice' celebrations. Key liturgical celebrations are also inclusive of the wider community and parents appreciate this inclusivity.

The robust monitoring and evaluation schedule has helped staff further strengthen the delivery of prayer and liturgy and the support offered is valued by staff. Leaders prioritise the provision for prayer, liturgy and worship to uphold the Catholic life of the school. Staff regularly 'go the extra mile' in providing liturgical worship for the entire school community. Leaders ensure the liturgical year is followed and particular celebrations and holy days are marked to enable further opportunities to bring the school community together. Policies are working documents and staff find the planned scripture and themes a useful tool to ensure consistency and relevance of prayer across all key stages. Continued professional development is offered with a particular focus on staff who are new to school and to early career teachers.
